

Pavlina Lazaridou has studied Economics in the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, has attended the post graduate studies of “Social Psychiatry” in the University of Ioannina and has participated in the specialization course of “Educating People with Disabilities” (AUPh).

Pavlina has been working in the research committee of Aristotle University for the past 11 years, first as a researcher and then as a project manager in the field of the environment and accessibility. She has been responsible for projects with a budget of 2.3 billion euros, and has experience of managing more than 50 different projects, either as coordinator or as partner.

Pavlina is a native speaker of english, speaks adequately german, little french and farsi and is learning sign language and braille language. She has been actively involved, as a volunteer and as an activist, in the field of human rights for the past 16 years.